

Parvis,

Someone tried to steal post from my wall-mounted post box today. I believe you have one too.

They put a piece of bent card disguised as a quote for a new gate, so that when the post is delivered, they can just lift it out.

The guy was in a red A5 and drove off with his tailgate up so that I couldn't see his registration.

He failed to get his hands on 2 credit card activation codes. Using online Credit Score apps, I found lots of searches on me in the past 2 weeks, including 9 credit card applications, which I spent a day reporting.

I believe you also have an outside postbox. so I wanted to pre-warn you. I will speak to Simon, our postman, about it as soon as I see him.

Regards
Paul
